

WW II PhotographsBy World War II, many families had cameras and therefore Julius Born was relied on less for photographs. There are a couple within the Born Collection that are representative of the relative informality that existed by this time. Both images are shown below:

World War II Photograph from the Julius Born Collection

